

ABSTARCT

Overlap syndrome is defined as an entity, which fulfills the criteria for at least two distinct connective tissue diseases, occurring together. Here we present a patient, who was treated for seronegative rheumatoid arthritis, but later found to have two other CTDs, SLE and systemic sclerosis (SSc) with strongly positive ANA and SCL-70 antibody.