

Abstract

Chronic Radiation Proctitis (CRP) is a well-known cause of per rectal bleeding after following radiotherapy in the treatment of fatal pelvic carcinomas 2% to 20% of patients [2,3]. Rectal Inflammation and telangiectasia formation is the main reason for bleeding per rectum. We describe a case here 65 year old gentle man presented with per rectal bleeding and altered bowel habit following radiotherapy two years ago for prostate carcinoma.